

This lecture was done by our board member Ron Flannery. He has done tremendous work on gathering what we know about evolution today. Please note that the error in the presentation regarding the number of chromosomes in the human genome was corrected from 24 to 23 after following up comments. Ron was informed that his lecture would be posted on Racjonalista TV website.

White paper „Evidence for expansion of the precuneus in human evolution.” used for the lecture.
